Corporate Bankruptcy Prediction Błażej Prusak, 2020-06-16 Bankruptcy prediction is one of the most important research areas in corporate finance. Bankruptcies are an indispensable element of the functioning of the market economy, and at the same time generate significant losses for stakeholders. Hence, this book was established to collect the results of research on the latest trends in predicting the bankruptcy of enterprises. It suggests models developed for different countries using both traditional and more advanced methods. Problems connected with predicting bankruptcy during periods of prosperity and recession, the selection of appropriate explanatory variables, as well as the dynamization of models are presented. The reliability of financial data and the validity of the audit are also referenced. Thus, I hope that this book will inspire you to undertake new research in the field of forecasting the risk of bankruptcy.

Renewal of Business Tenancies Michael A. Haley,2006 Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 gives rights to business tenants to negotiate the renewal of their tenancy when it comes to an end and gives rights to the landlord to oppose such renewals in certain cases. Where negotiation fails, the Court has powers to settle the terms of a renewal, end a tenancy, or grant compensation to the tenant. The law was radically altered in 2004 by Regulatory Reform Order and statutory instruments containing the new forms and notices. This new scheme is now in force in England and Wales and case law is beginning to emerge. The process of renewal is subject to strict regulation, precise documentation, time-limits, and completion of prescribed forms. This book is designed to provide a step-by-step guide around the twists and pitfalls of the new renewal procedure. This practical book: outlines the rights of the parties involved; guides the reader through the legislation; provides up-to-date references to case law; offers useful checklists; includes Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 (as amended). Renewal of Business Tenancies will prove to be an invaluable guide to renewals for busy practitioners.

On The Waterfront: Water Distribution, Technology And Agrarian Change In A South Indian Canal Irrigation System Peter P. Mollinga,2003 Series: Wageningen University Water Resources Series. This book analyses the struggle over water in a large-scale irrigation system in Raichur District, Karnataka, South India. It looks at water control as a simultaneously technical, managerial and socio-political process. The triangle of accommodation of different categories of farmers, irrigation department officials and local politicians, involving water, votes, money, employment, credit and harassment, is documented. The book shows that the physical infrastructure, notably the division structures, are signposts of struggle, expressing the balance of power between farmers and the irrigation department, and that between head- and tail-end farmers. It concludes with a discussion of irrigation reform efforts in India: reasons for the very slow transformation of the sector, and how a more integrated perspective on irrigation could provide directions for the way forward.

Fairs and Markets in the Roman Empire L. de Ligt, 1993 Periodic markets are institutions of crucial importance in all pre-industrial economies. Yet the subject has been given little attention by Roman historians. The aim of this book is to remedy this state of affairs through an empire-wide study of annual, bi-annual, monthly and 'weekly' markets. The method used involves the interpretation of the ancient evidence in terms of economic and anthropological theory and against the background of comparative data. Dr de Ligt starts by demonstrating the continued importance of local and regional fairs throughout the imperial period. Special attention is devoted to the role of both annual fairs and high-frequency periodic markets in the rural economy. In the second half of the book the scope of the discussion is extended to social and political aspects. Finally, the book addresses such topics as urban resistance towards neighbouring rural markets and the widespread practice of waiving customs duties for the duration of large-scale religious festivals.
